PART X: PUBLICATIONS

Meaning of objectionable and prohibited publications

53 (1). Publications are classified as either ‘Objectionable’ or ‘Not objectionable’

For the purposes of this Act, a publication is objectionable if, in the opinion of the board,—
(a) the publication, or, where the publication comprises 2 or more distinct parts or items, any one of its parts or items describes, depicts, expresses or otherwise deals with matters such as sex, horror, crime, cruelty, violence or the consumption of drugs or other intoxicating substances in such a manner that the availability of the publication is likely to be injurious to the public good; or

(b) its effect or, where the publication comprises 2 or more distinct parts or items, the effect of any one of its parts or items is, if taken as a whole, such as to tend to deprave and corrupt persons who are likely, having regard to all relevant circumstances, to read, see or hear the matter contained or embodied in it; or

(b) the publication, or, where the publication comprises 2 or more distinct parts or items, any one of its parts or items describes, depicts, expresses or otherwise deals with matters of race, ethnicity, political affiliation or religion in such a manner that the availability of the publication is likely to cause feelings of enmity, hatred, ill-will or hostility between different racial, ethnic, political or religious groups.

(2) In determining for the purposes of this Act whether or not any publication is objectionable, the following matters shall be considered:

(a) the extent and degree to which, and the manner in which, the publication —

(i) describes, depicts or otherwise deals with acts of torture, the infliction of serious physical harm, sexual conduct or violence or coercion in association with sexual conduct;

(ii) exploits the nudity of persons or children or both;

(iii) promotes or encourages criminal acts or acts of terrorism;

(iv) represents, directly or indirectly, that members of any particular community or group are inherently inferior to other members of the public or of any other community or group;

(b) the impact of the medium in which the publication is presented;

(c) the character of the publication, including any merit, value or importance that the publication has in relation to literary, artistic, social, cultural, educational, scientific or other matters;

(d) the standards of morality, decency and propriety that are generally accepted by reasonable members of the community; and
(e) the persons, classes of persons or age groups of the persons to whom the publication is intended or is likely to be made available.

(3) The Chief Executive Officer shall keep and maintain a Register containing all publications which the board determines to be objectionable.

Power to prohibit importation, sale or circulation of objectionable publications

54. (1) If the Board advises the Cabinet secretary that the importation, sale or circulation of any publication or series of publications published or printed outside Kenya or within Kenya by any person would be contrary to the public interest, the Cabinet secretary may, by order published in the Gazette, prohibit the importation, sale or circulation of that particular publication or series of publications or all publications published or printed by that person.

(2) An order made under subsection (1) shall, unless a contrary intention is expressed therein, apply to any translation into any language of the publication specified in the order.

(3) The Cabinet secretary may at any time vary or amend any order made under subsection (1)

Offences

55. (1) A person who imports, publishes, sells, offers for sale, supplies, offers to supply, exhibits, distributes or reproduces any prohibited publication or any extract therefrom shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable on conviction for a first offence to a fine not exceeding two hundred thousand or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or to both, and for a subsequent offence to imprisonment for a term not exceeding four years.

(2) A person who without reasonable excuse has in his possession any prohibited publication or any extract therefrom shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable on conviction for a first offence to a fine not exceeding two hundred thousand or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or to both, and for a subsequent offence to imprisonment for a term not exceeding four years without the option of a fine.

(3) In any proceedings against any person for an offence under subsection (2), that person shall be presumed, until the contrary is proved, to have known the contents and the nature of the contents of any publication immediately after such publication came into his possession.
(4) For purposes of this part and any other written law prohibiting obscenity or pornography, the board may use any classification guidelines under this Act, to declare writings, drawings, prints, paintings, printed matter, pictures, posters, emblems, photographs, cinematograph film or other object to be objectionable.

(5) The question whether or not a publication is objectionable is a matter for the expert judgment of the board or its authorized officer, and evidence as to or proof of any of the matters or particulars that the person is required to consider in determining that question is not essential to its determination.

Power to examine packages

56. A police officer or authorized officer of the board may detain, open and examine any package or article which he suspects to contain any prohibited publication or extract therefrom and during such examination may detain any person importing, distributing or posting such package or article, or in whose possession such package or article is found.

(2) If any prohibited publication or extract therefrom is found in such package or article, the whole package or article may be impounded and retained by the officer and the person importing, distributing or posting it, or in whose possession it is found, may forthwith be arrested by such officer and proceeded against for the commission of an offence under this part.

Examination of articles coming into Kenya

57(1) A police officer, a customs or excise officer, an officer of a public postal service or authorized officer of the board may detain, open and examine any article coming into Kenya in any manner whatsoever from any place outside Kenya which he has reason to believe contains or consists of an obscene or objectionable publication.

Forfeiture

58. A court before which any proceedings are taken under this Act, if satisfied that any document produced in the proceedings is a prohibited publication or an extract therefrom, shall, whether the alleged offender is convicted or not, order such publication or extract therefrom to be forfeited to the state, and be destroyed or otherwise disposed of in such manner as the court thinks fit.

Issue of search warrant
59. Whenever it is shown to a court that there is reasonable cause to believe that in any premises or place there is concealed or deposited any prohibited publication or extract therefrom, the court may, by warrant directed to a police officer, empower that officer to enter such premises or place by force if necessary to search for, seize and detain any such publication.

60. Whenever it appears to a police officer, not below the rank of inspector, that there is reasonable cause to believe that in any premises or place there is concealed or deposited any prohibited publication or extract therefrom, and he has good grounds for believing that, by reason of the delay in obtaining a search warrant, the object of the search is likely to be frustrated, the police officer may enter and search such premises or place as if he were empowered to do so by a warrant issued under subsection (1).

Exemptions

61(1) Where any publication is a prohibited publication, an obscene or objectionable publication under this Act, any person may apply to the Cabinet secretary for an exemption from any of the provisions of this Act in respect of that publication.

(2) Every application shall be in the form provided for the purpose by the Chief Board and shall be accompanied by such fee as the Cabinet secretary may prescribe by regulations.

(3) On receiving an application under this section in relation to a publication, the Cabinet secretary, if satisfied that the publication should be made available to a limited class of persons or to a particular person for educational, professional, scientific, artistic or technical reasons, may exempt that class of persons or that person from any such provision of this Act as he may specify in respect of that publication for such period as he thinks fit.

(4) An exemption under this section may be granted absolutely or subject to such conditions as may be specified by the Cabinet secretary.

PART XI ENFORCEMENT
